Preparing for the future with Vero Motor Fleet

29 March 2007: 'Imagining the Future' will be easy at Vero Motor Fleet's second annual Think on your Fleet seminar on 3 April 2007. The seminar aims to provide forward-thinking and practical advice for fleet managers.

Approximately 70 people are expected to attend the seminar to be held in Sydney at the Powerhouse Museum's Transport Exhibition.

The 'Imagining the Future' seminar will address issues that are topical for today's successful fleet manager. Two keynote speakers will present at the seminar, both experts in their field.

Dr Andrew Richards, Vero's Emerging Risk Manager will examine alternative fuel sources, their environmental implications and what will be financially and commercially viable for fleet managers in the future.

David Smith, Managing Director of Risk Matters will look at how to build a risk management culture. He will explain how people react to risk internally, and how this process needs to be accounted for when formulating a risk management strategy.

Greg Steel, General Manager of Vero Motor Fleet, said this year's seminar aims to challenge participants and emphasise the need to plan ahead.

"In order to stay ahead of competitors, fleet managers need to develop a risk management culture and be aware of changes to the dynamics of running their vehicles in the near future.

"The Think on your Fleet seminar aims to clear some of the haze surrounding alternative fuels and how to build a risk management culture. It reinforces our commitment to providing our clients with a complete insurance and risk management solution," Mr Steel said.
